Symphonic Band on TV

Channel 6 TV will feature the Regional Symphonic Band playing a program of Christmas music on Sunday, December 24th, between 2 and 3 P.M. The program will be taped at the Bristol Auditorium of the Old Rochester Regional School. The Band, under the direction of John Pandolfi, needs no introduction to its fans in the local towns, but to those who have not yet heard them, this will be an opportunity to sample music which has been consistently of the highest caliber. The program will be as follows:

A Christmas Festival.....Anderson
Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring....Bach-Leidzen
The Christmas Song.....Torme-Cacavas
The Sussex Memmer's Christmas Carol.....
Grainger
Bells of St. Mary's.....Adams-Yoder

KIWANIS CLUB INSTALLS

Newly elected officers of the Marion-Mattapoisett Kiwanis Club were officially installed at Tuesday night's regular meeting at the Colonial Coach Restaurant in Marion. Division 4 Lt. Governor-elect Robert Fugere of Wareham installed the officers for 1968.

Andrew M. Matterson of Marion succeeds Llewellyn V. Roberts of Mattapoisett as the club's new president, becoming the third in the organization's young history. Others installed were Richard G. Seaver of Mattapoisett as first vice-president and Roger C. Morris, also of Mattapoisett, as second vice-president. Seaver succeeds Attorney Donald J. Fleming of Mattapoisett. Morris' post is a newly created one. Wilfred Moreau of Mattapoisett is the club's new treasurer, taking Morris' place. The new secretary is Noel Almeida of Mattapoisett. He succeeds Antone Rapoza of Mattapoisett.

A sizeable delegation of Kiwanians from the New Bedford and Wareham clubs attended the dinner and installation, including several past Lt.-Governors and the present Lt. Governor Roland R. Milliken of New Bedford.

The new officers are looking forward to 1968 with keen anticipation as the fledgling service club embarks on its second full year. Having firmly established itself as a worthwhile civic addition to the communities of Marion and Mattapoisett, the new club and its leaders hope to expand the scope of activities and continue to attract the kind of members who have something to give.

The first annual Marion-Mattapoisett Kiwanis Club Christmas Party will be held for members and guests Saturday night, December 23rd, at the Colonial Coach in Marion. More than 60 persons are expected to gather for dinner and dancing. Co-chairmen for the event are Richard Vangel and Wilfred Moreau of Mattapoisett, and John Pulpi of Marion.

The affair will be complete with Santa Claus and Christmas tree. Members and guests are asked to bring inexpensive gifts with them to place under the tree. Cocktail hour is from 6:30 to 7 with the dinner following.

DR. MYERS SPEAKS AT ORRHS

The Romance of Words was the subject of a lecture by Dr. Rowland M. Myers at an assembly on December 11th at the Old Rochester Regional High School. Dr. Myers, a native of Brooklyn, New York, and a graduate of Dartmouth College, received his Doctor of Philosophy degree in Romance Languages and Literature from the Johns-Hopkins University in Baltimore. He was awarded an American Field Service Fellowship for study in French Universities by the Institute of International Education and has also studied in Germany, Italy, Spain and Mexico. Dr. Myers has visited the Soviet

Christmas, 1967

To Our Friends:

Though many things may change, Christmas remains the same. For it will always be a season of joy and hope, love and faith.

We thank you for the privilege of serving you this past year...and greet you in the true spirit of Christmas which began so long ago under the stars of Bethlehem. May you know the joy, the warmth, and the love of Christmas as it is expressed by happy family gatherings, by the melodious bells and chimes and by our worship of the Almighty.

And we hope, as the New Year dawns, it will bring you the fullest measure of progress, happiness and good health. May these Christmas wishes and blessings be with you throughout the years that lie ahead.

Union and traveled in Eastern Europe as well as Greece, Turkey, Egypt and the Holy Land.

Dr. Myers has taught languages and literature at five of the leading colleges and universities in the United States as well as at the American School Center of Military Government Officers in England. During World War II, he commanded an Anti-aircraft Artillery Battery and served in the Intelligence and Psychological Warfare sections of the Army. Later he was a Political Analyst and Deputy Chief of the Elections and Political Parties Branch of the American Military Government in Berlin, Germany.

In his unique lecture, Dr. Myers presents a series of ordinary words, explains their origin, and shows how they reflect the past history of man on this planet, his activities and his thoughts, his moments of confusion, his hopes and his fears. He also discusses the vital question of what is correct in language.

According to Dr. Myers, words are like coins: the more they are used, the faster they wear down and change their form and meaning. He suggests that some day everyone in the world will speak the same tongue, using a universal language which will evolve from existing languages.

Dr. Myers believes that a word can be a great power for good and for evil and that words are important weapons in life, no matter what one does for a living. He tries to show, however, that they are not only important, but that they can be fun, if one knows how to go about it. And Dr. Myers certainly knows how to go about it in this fascinating talk which is both educational as well as entertaining.

The new chapel at Tabor blends the English Tudor with contemporary design in a simple and striking way. The view shows the pleasing result.

Loft School Grows

LOFT SCHOOL IN MARION

"...Before we reach the town-oh, town,-oh, town oh, before we reach the town-oh!" On the floor sat a guitar playing folk singer and around her sat seventeen eager kindergarten boys and girls singing and listening with rapt attention. The children were in the kindergarten class of the Loft School in Marion, the folk singer was Mrs. Lawrence Bidstrup. The children in Mrs. Grace Russell's class of 5-year olds are familiar with music; they sing, march and play musical instruments daily, but this was a special treat. But, then, shouldn't school be exciting and special often? This certainly is the desire of the Board of Directors of the Loft School.

After six years of operation, what was started by the parents of eight or ten preschool children in a barn in North Marion, has come to bloom as a school with three separate classes and three trained teachers meeting in the school rooms of St. Gabriel's Episcopal Church.

The immediate aim of the Loft School is to act as a supplement - not a substitute - for the home. It is a place where children learn to get along with others, a place especially designed "to allow children to be as active and creative as they are inclined to be". The ultimate goal is to help each youngster grow into an individual who will be responsible for his own actions and who will accept the consequences of his own behavior.

As a continuing demonstration of their concern for the community as a whole, the Loft School will present a program with Dr. Joseph Kunces, superintendent of Old Rochester Regional School District, on January 24th. Dr. Kunces will discuss what he feels the role of a private kindergarten should be and how he feels the existing

Christmas Spirit

By request we are repeating the following story which was in last year's Presto.

Last week a lady called the local radio during the daily babble-on program to ask indignantly, "What's happened to the Christmas spirit?" She explained that this quality is gone - no one has it anymore. How sad for her and all who feel this way.

No one can go back. Memories are similar dreams and each year they become more golden. Christmases past become brighter for they are full of the best of times with people known and loved and perhaps gone. But it's sad when you reach that point where the magic is all behind you - that point where there is little joy in the present and no expectation in the future. The Christmas spirit is nothing more than the human spirit at its finest. So many people wait like a passive audience for the spirit to come and entertain them and they think it's gone when it doesn't perform like a television set turned on. Like all things of meaning, spirit requires participation.

An old fashioned steam radiator is an ugly object. On a cold day this hulking iron is transformed as it hisses cheer and projects its warm rays to everyone in the room. Then it becomes a friend and an object of affection and you might think "good old radiator".

Just like that the Christmas spirit is radiated from within a person. Then, with fortune, the warm rays of thoughtfulness, cheer and generosity are reflected back by a "good old friend".

Charles Dickens said it wonderfully in the story, "A Christmas Carol" which, to be appreciated, has to be read as it flowed from the pen of the author. A parent reading this story to the children will give them an experience to savor all their lives. Recently, this classic has been butchered by hacks and served up on television as a yearly "special" call "Mr. Magoo's Christmas Carol". This version bears as much resemblance to the original story as glass bears to a diamond. The book is available, however, and with small effort the words of a genius can fire the imagination of child or adult and cement the bond of love and the spirit of Christmas in the home.

After the whine, "What happened to the spirit of Christmas?" it seems to be standard procedure to follow up with "Christmas is so commercialized". Here again, we are assumed to be beyond control like chips hurled by a wicked wind. The exchange of gifts has little to do with Christmas spirit. The tinsel, colored lights, Santa Claus and gifts are only a treat for the senses. The great gifts can't be bought but must flow freely from a generous heart. Gifts are only a pleasant sidelight. It's the difference between Christmas Eve and Christmas Day. The Eve is a treat for the spirit. It is the hush before the wonder of the event. It's the tingle of anticipation - the time to read "The Night Before Christmas" - for children to lie in bed and listen in the dark for the clatter of the hoofs on the roof. Christmas Eve is so wonderfully full with expectations that no event could realize the dream. Certainly not the reality of Christmas Day. Such is the power of imagination. But, without the Christmas Day to anticipate could there be a Christmas Eve? That magical night would be lost.

The lazy, human spirit glows brighter at Christmas for most. We warm to our fellow travelers in life and they reflect back in kind. With effort, we might have something of this the year round. The Spirit of Christmas is the rekindling of the human spirit and the great story of Christmas is the beautiful, simple one of the Baby born in Bethlehem. No one outside yourself can spoil Christmas because no external influence can reach the inner person, the human heart and the faith which sustains it through the centuries. DCJ sett, addressed the Homemaking class of Mrs. Katherine Stern this past week at the Old Rochester Regional High School. On Wednesday morning, December 6, Mrs. Ennis spoke on the marriage laws of Massachusetts and the duties and responsibilities of the Town Clerk in issuing a marriage license. She stressed the importance of allowing sufficent time for making the Notice of Intention of Marriage, having the blood test and obtaining the license. The failure of some young men to arrive without the necessary filing fee of two dollars led her to wonder about the probable success of the marriages. Questions from the class brought forth illustrations of some of the less well known provisions of the laws covering marriage in this state. Mrs. Ennis called attention to the special provision in the law which permits a young woman to file the Notice of Intentions for a Massachusetts man in the military service. The talk had been arranged by a member of the class, Cynthia Magill.

Mr. Donald Finley, father of Marcia Finley, a member of the class, addressed the group on Friday, December 8th. His topic was "The Responsibilities of the Church to the Couple Who Were to be Married". Mr. Finley used the sections of the Congregational marriage service to explain the significance of the marriage ceremony to the class. The first part of the service is addressed to the assembled relatives of the bride and groom charging them to love and respect the couple in their future life together. The vow, "I will", signifies that the bride and groom will practice patience, sacrifice and unselfishness based on mutual faith, hope and love. The church community is there to give continuing love and friendship "for as long as they both shall live". The church, Mr. Finley said, should be notified at least six weeks ahead of the planned ceremony so that there would be adequate time for the couple to meet with the minister for counseling. Mr. Finley recalled the remark of his father when he had spoken to his parent of his pending marriage and his hope he had chosen wisely. The father responded, "Getting married is not so much finding the right girl as being the right man".
